Fred and Barney notice that Pebbles™ and Bamm-Bamm™ are missing! They search their neighborhood and discover the kids playing at the foot of a volcano. As fate would have it, they are separated by a lava flow just before they reach the children. Only a greedy Pterodactyl is capable of taking them to the wayward tykes.

But there’s a price to be paid. The flying reptile demands five gemstones as payment for reuniting the parents with their kids. Fred and Barney must travel through 12 levels of intense prehistoric challenges to gain the gems. They’re ready for anything as Fred grabs his club and Barney packs his slingshot as the adventure begins!

PLAYING PREHISTORIC HARD BALL

It's pretty tough for a modern stone-age family. Start the search for Pebbles™ and Bamm-Bamm™ in the town of Bedrock™ and you'll find a whole new world to discover.

You have the option of being Fred or Barney at any point during the game. This is very important because they each have their own strengths and weaknesses. Fred can scale the face of a cliff, but Barney can't. However, Barney can grab and leap up or climb hand-over-hand on vines, but Fred can't.

Find the best combination for them to make it through the traps, monsters and challenges ahead. Special Note: There is no time limit to completing the levels. This takes away some of the pressure. There are also an unlimited number of continues, so you can keep going!
