Description

You are bidding on a wonderful Commodore 64 breadbox! Based on the original brown Commodore 64 computer, there has been much speculation as to whether or not this piece actually exists. Now, finally, those rumors no longer apply! Thought once to have even been used by the famous Jack Tramiel at Commodore luncheons and meetings, this beautiful little piece has been kept in perfect condition all of these years! My family has been using this to store our bread since 1985, but the wife would now like to move on and purchase one of those modern-age boxes. We have used it to store many types of bread, from Italian to the tasty Potato Bread you see in the photos. The only drawback that comes to mind is that buyer must be aware that if the lid is to cover your bread, you must slant your bread slightly to avoid it from being crushed. Other than that small setback, you will definitely enjoy to luxury of keeping your bread tasty and fresh in this little wonder! As an added bonus, I am throwing in a lovely bread serving tray (located in the photo with the Country Crock) which will most definitely wow your neighbors! Buyer to pay all shipping costs. Potato bread,

Country Crock, and butter knife are not included in this auction. Happy bidding!
